

Inclusion of Journalism Courses

Journalism Courses

There are three Journalism classes to which IMJRs will have preferential access (IMJRs will be treated as if they are pre-Journalism majors for these classes):

- JOUR 1002 The Press in America
- JOUR 2000W Newswriting I
- JOUR 2001W Newswriting II

Only JOUR 2000W and JOUR 2001W should appear in Part A of your plan of study. If your faculty advisor from Journalism approves, you may include other upper-level Journalism courses in Part B of your plan of study. However, non-majors may have difficulty getting into these courses.

Consulting with a Journalism Advisor

If you wish to include Journalism classes in your IMJR plan of study, make an appointment with Professor Maureen Croteau (maureen.croteau@uconn.edu) at least two weeks ahead of the deadline date for the submission of your IMJR proposal, and bring the following items:

- An unofficial copy of your transcript, so that the advisor can see what prerequisite courses you have had and your academic strengths.
- A working copy of your plan of study.
- A draft copy of your statement of purpose.
- Be prepared to discuss your major and explain how Journalism courses will help you to meet your academic goals.

Registration for Journalism Courses

Having a Journalism course on your approved plan of study does not guarantee that you will be able to register for it. Registration is on a space available basis. In order to register for the approved Journalism courses in the IMJR plan of study, you will need to get permission from the Journalism Department Office. In JOUR, course access is handled centrally; please do not approach individual faculty members for permission numbers.
